Building Resilience to Address Domestic Violence

Service mapping exercise

Make a service map that lists all possible services in your national. To make a service map exercise use these guidelines.

1st step. A4 format page - Brainstorming. Everyone individually puts down social services they know in their country.

2nd step. A3 format page – everyone shares what they wrote individually and tries to answer the key questions in their groups.

3rd step. Making a social service map. Try making the map as interesting, easily, understandable for everyone as possible (use A4 format page).

Key questions to address in a service mapping exercise are:

Where are services currently located?

Who are services available to (e.g. victim/survivor age/sex, specific forms of violence against women and girls)?

Who is using them?

When are services available (opening times)?

What do the services provide (ideally including standards and quality control)?

What protocols are in place?

Who delivers these services?

Which services do they refer on to and receive referrals from?

What are the outcomes for service users?

What does it cost to provide the services and what levels of investment do they receive?
